

SENTIMENTAL CROOK

This is a special category of "criminals" ... although this name often brings a smile on our lips (knowing that sometimes couples associate with this joke), we think that this tagma is perhaps the most inferior and abject kind of crooks!

The reason is that these people take advantage of the victim's feelings, lying them, most often make them love or win their trust and affection - and everything has as a conclusion the obtaining of material advantages, the passage of a property on behalf of the person cheating, sub-use of goods (or taking them out as a loan and intending not to return them) and other many hidden goals.

More serious is when the effect of this crime can involve a marriage or a child.

The psychological trauma induced to the victim most often leaves traces in the long run, unable to recover from this emotional shock for a long period of time.